Introduction from Siraj Choudhury
Chair, CIEH and Chair, Environmental Health Welfare Fund

Dear Prospective Candidate

Like most professional bodies, CIEH has a welfare fund designed to help members (or their dependants) who find themselves in difficult circumstances through no fault of their own.

The fund is managed by a Board, the members of which are the trustees of CIEH; it is a registered charity. Day-to-day management of the Fund, and decisions about applications, are made by a Committee that has a large degree of discretion to determine the way in which it works.

The governing documents for the charity have recently been updated following a regular review and a new structure for the Committee put in place, consistent with CIEH's approach to openness and transparency.

There are now two vacancies on that Committee, appointments to which will be recommended by CIEH's Appointments and Remuneration Committee to the Welfare Fund Board.

Since it was established, in 1937, our Welfare Fund has supported members and their families. If you would like to join the team leading this satisfying work, we would welcome an application from you.

Thank you for your interest.

Siraj Choudhury

About CIEH and its Welfare Fund

The Chartered Institute of Environmental Health is a professional membership body dedicated to improving health and wellbeing. We are a registered charity established by Royal Charter, based in the UK with offices in England (London) and Northern Ireland (Belfast), as well as staff based in Wales.

On behalf of our 8,000 members and the wider environmental health profession, we campaign and provide information and evidence on environmental health issues to government and other key decision-makers.

We set standards and accredit courses and qualifications. We provide training to educate, inform and boost the skills of environmental health professionals and the general workforce across the public and private sectors. Our training also assists employers to comply with legal requirements and best practise, to ensure that businesses can enhance the health and wellbeing of staff and clients.

Our Welfare Fund receives its income from the generosity of our members and from investment returns generated on earlier gifts. It is an important part of CIEH membership and we are keen to develop its income and its ability to make grants.

Welfare Fund Committee – Role and composition

Its Board of Trustees is the ultimate decision making body of the Environmental Health Welfare Fund.

The primary function of the Welfare Fund Committee (which reports to the Board) is to assess, consider and determine applications for awards made by the Fund. Its rules require it to ensure that there is a clear and transparent process in place and appropriate provision for data management and the confidentiality of applications.

It is required to seek approval of its processes from the Board at least once every two years.

There are five members of the Committee:

- Three members of CIEH
- A member of the CIEH Board
- An independent member, appointed for their experience in fund-raising or grant-making.

The initial term of office for Committee members is three years; the maximum service is six years (consecutive or otherwise).

What is it like to take on a role in CIEH's governance?

Amanda Clarke

Amanda joined the CIEH Appointments and Remuneration Committee in 2016. She is a practising Environmental Health professional with experience in hospitality management, the private sector and local government. She says, "It is a pleasure to sit on the Appointments and Remuneration committee at a very exciting time when so many committed professionals are putting themselves forward to be part of an Institute which has recognised the need for change. To be part of the process ensuring the organisation recruits the best possible candidates on to the committees and boards is both an impressive and rewarding experience. As a Chartered Environmental Health Practitioner, I feel my role on the committee represents the views of CIEH members. My commitment to the role is driven by a rewarding career that the CIEH has supported along the way. CIEH genuinely wants to be more inclusive and welcoming and I'm pleased to be part of that change."

Kevin Gould

Kevin joined the CIEH Risk and Audit Committee in 2015. He is a Chartered Accountant who has worked in internal audit and consulting roles in the financial services industry for 25 years. Kevin wanted to broaden his experience and use his skills in for the benefit of a cause he believes to be important. "I have met interesting people from very different professional backgrounds and found that my expertise is welcome and valued. As someone who has prepared board papers for many years, I have also found it invaluable to see things from the other side and get an insight into the information board and committee members need to perform their role." Kevin became a trustee of CIEH and its Welfare Fund in 2017 and was elected Deputy Chair earlier this year. He is enjoying using his financial experience in a more strategic capacity, which again is something he believes will develop new skills and offer new career opportunities.

Andrea Higginbottom

Andrea is a member of CIEH's Learning and Qualifications Advisory Group - she joined in 2017. She specialises in helping professional service providers identify and make dynamic improvements to their business, so that they achieve their full potential. "When I heard the CIEH was looking for advisors I knew it would be an invaluable opportunity for me to support the transformation of such a respected organisation. As a professional advisor I have had the chance to share the wide range of experience I've gained in industry with a variety of people, to help them further their goals. Personally, the role has been amazingly fulfilling too. I learn something new every day from the many specialist professionals we collaborate with."
